

Faculty of Engineering

Postgraduate Course Outline

Dr Joung Oh

1.1	Course Description	3
1.2	Course Completion	3
1.3	Assumed Knowledge	3
1.4	Attendance.....	3
2.1	Course Aims	4
2.2	Learning Outcomes	4
3.1	Reference Materials	5
3.2	Other Resources	5
3.3	Online Resources	5
3.4	Report Writing Guide for Engineers	5
4.1	Learning Activities Summary	6
5.1	Assessment Summary	7
5.2	Assessment Requirements	7
5.3	Penalties for Non-Compliant Submission	8
5.4	ASSESSMENT CRITERIA.....	9
6.1	How We Contact You.....	10
6.2	How You Can Contact Us	10
6.3	Computing Resources and Internet Access Requirements	10
6.4	Accessing Course Materials Through Moodle	10
6.5	Assessment Criteria for Postgraduate programs	10
6.6	Assignment Submissions	11
6.7	Late Submission of an Assignment	11
6.8	Special Consideration	11
6.9	Course Results.....	11
6.10	Students Needing Additional Support.....	12
6.11	Academic Honesty and Plagiarism.....

Course Code: MINE8860

Term: T3, 2019

Level: PG

Units/Credits 6 UOC

William Hustrulid. Blasting principles for open pit mining and theoretical foundations, Rotterdam : A.A. Balkema, 1999.

Practical Blasting Fundamentals, International Society of Explosives Engineers

Carlos Lopez Jimeno, Emilio Lopez Jimeno, Francisco Javier Ayala Carcedo. Drilling and blasting of rocks, Rotterdam, Ne.: A.A. Balkema, c1995.

Open Pit Blast Design – analysis and optimisation, JKMRRC Monograph 1, University of Queensland, 1996.

from the UNSW Bookshop or a softcopy downloaded from the School webpage.

Each submission must have appended:

- o to the front, a signed copy of the Student Declaration Form and Coversheet; and
- o to the end, a copy of the Assessment Criteria.

Copies of both documents are available for download from Moodle.

It is _____ when preparing the major assignment; students use the Report Template available from Moodle. Note: as this template already incorporates the required the Student Declaration Form, a student does not need to separately append a signed copy of coversheet to their assignment.

How

The name of the document must be consistent with the standard file naming convention as stated in the Assignment Submission, these being:

An example of a typical filename that follows this file naming convention would be:

which elements correspond to:

- o Family name of student:
- o First and second initial(s) of student:
- o Course Code:
- o Relevant assignment number as defined in Table 2: _____ for the assessment task Project Proposal
- o File format: _____ document

5.3

A submission that is non-compliant with the School Policy on Assignment Submission and/or requirements as contained in this Course Outline may not be marked and/or penalty marks subtracted from the assignment mark for non-compliance.

Some examples of a non-compliant assignment include that the assignment submission:

is not a single PDF document. Penalty for non-compliance: assignment not marked.

does not contain a signed copy of the Student Declaration Statement. Penalty for non-compliance: assignment not marked.

is not fully consistent with the designated file naming convention as listed above and defined as Item #6 in the School Policy on electronic submission. For example, a file name such as < ProjectProposal.pdf > is NOT compliant. Penalty for non-compliance: 10 marks.

does not have appended at the end of the assignment a copy of the official Assessment Criteria template. Penalty for non-compliance: 5 marks.

Assignments related details/submission-box will be available online through Moodle. Access to the Moodle site is via the Moodle icon on the MyUNSW homepage.

Each assignment submitted for assessment must be attached with:

an official School Coversheet at the front of the assignment; and the requisite Assessment Criteria form at the end of the assignment with the self-assessment completed by the student.

The Student Equity and Disabilities Unit (SEADU) aims to provide all students with support and professional advice when circumstances may prevent students from achieving a successful university education. Take a look at their webpage: www.studentequity.unsw.edu.au/

Your lecturer and the University will expect your submitted assignments are truly your own work. UNSW has very clear guidelines on what plagiarism is and how to avoid it. Plagiarism is using the words or ideas of others and presenting them as your own. Plagiarism is a type of intellectual theft. It can take many forms, from deliberate cheating to accidentally copying from a source without acknowledgement.

SCHOOL ASSESSMENT COVER SHEET

Students are advised to retain a copy of this assessment for their records and submission should be made in accordance to the assessment details available on the course Moodle site.